Luck be a vampire tonight ... When Nicole Phillips agreed to hire a housekeeper, she pictured someone a little frumpy and almost certainly female. Instead, she gets gorgeous, unmistakably male Jake Colson. The man is proving indispensable in the kitchen - and everywhere else. Except Jake might not be a mortal man at all. ... and every night Who wouldn't want to be a tall, dark, powerful vampire? Jake, for one. He's barely had time to adjust to his new state before he's roped into a family favour. Still, secretly playing bodyguard to sweet, sexy Nicole is turning out to be the wildest ride of his life. First he'll put a stop to whoever's targeting her. Then he'll prove that this kind of love, and luck, happens only once in an eternity.

Wild Hunger Lori Handeland

In 1517 the English armies have defeated and killed James IV of Scotland at Flodden and James's widow-queen, Margaret, sister to Henry VIII, has fled to England, leaving her crown under a Council of Regency. Roger Shallot is drawn into a web of mystery and murder by his close friendship with Benjamin Daunbey, the nephew of Cardinal Wolsey, first minister of Henry VIII. Benjamin and Roger are ordered into Margaret's household to resolve certain mysteries as well as to bring about her restoration to Scotland. They begin by questioning Selkirk, a half-mad physician imprisoned in the Tower. He is subsequently found poisoned in a locked chamber guarded by soldiers. The only clue is a poem of riddles. However, the poem contains the seeds for other gruesome murders. The faceless assassin always leaves a white rose, the mark of Les Blancs Sangliers, a secret society plotting the overthrow of the Tudor monarchy... This novel was previously published under the pseudonym Michael Clynes.

Caveman Dave MIRA

From New York Times and Globe and Mail bestselling author Joy Fielding comes a pulse-racing story of a harmless bet gone deadly wrong. This is how it starts. With a joke. Two brothers - Will and Jeff - and their friend Tom are out one night at their favorite South Beach bar when they decide to make a bet on who can be the first to seduce a mysterious-looking young woman drinking by herself. Pretty, dark-haired, blue-eyed Suzy has an innocent - almost ordinary - girl-next-door way about her. "Just waiting for Prince Charming to hit on her," Jeff says. But Suzy isn't as naive as she seems. And she has an agenda of her own. Soon another challenge is born, only this one proves to be lethal. Dark secrets, hidden passions and a story filled with intrigue, The Wild Zone will keep you in suspense until the very last page is turned.

Elemental beings such as gnomes and fairies exist in many folk and spiritual traditions, and Rudolf Steiner also discussed their significance to our world. Some people are able to engage and even communicate with elementals. Ursula Burkhard was one such person. Blind from birth, she experienced gnomes and other elementals from early childhood. When, as she grew older, her parents tried to dissuade her, she was puzzled: why should she believe in the 'real' things she was unable to see, and ignore what she knew to be true? In this readable little book, she describes her remarkable experiences and in particular her relationship with a special gnome, Karlik. The book was a bestseller in Germany in the 1980s, bringing the world of the elementals into the mainstream.

Life is beautiful! Life is beautiful! Life is beautiful! I'd like to begin the preface to this book. Do you agree with me? I think it's right to introduce myself at this point. My name is Jack Jones and I'm a heavy ex-smoker. Is that enough for you? Do you still want more references? I'm not a doctor nor a guru and even less a modern priest. However, I can assure you that, in my 25 years as a hardened smoker, I smoked almost 3 packs a day (it's not true I smoked 1 and a half, 3 was cooler) I read dozens of books on the subject, I tried acupuncture, patches, electronic cigarette and nicotine gum with catastrophic results. While trying to quit smoking in vain, I approached traditional Chinese medicine to try to alleviate the suffering caused by smoking, then moved on to the study of the mechanisms of the mind and here finally the turning point. I am sure that as a preface it is enough also because I hate particularly long ones and I almost always don't even read them. Let us therefore move directly on to the first chapter. I wanted to let you know that some of the proceeds from this book will be donated to ANRF. American nonsmokers' right foundation. I think it is my duty to contribute to the support of associations that help people with serious health problems caused by smoking. Quit smoking, quit smoking now!!

NEW YORK TIMES BESTSELLER • He strikes without warning. He kills without mercy. He's only just begun. As part of an elite K-9 search and rescue team, Sarah Patrick and her golden retriever, Monty, have a gift for finding what no one else can. But their latest assignment is not like the others. This time Sarah is being forced to take part in a deadly mission . . . by a man who knows enough about her past to ensure her cooperation. Billionaire John Logan's top-secret venture has been sabotaged, its facilities destroyed, and its handpicked staff massacred. The sole survivor is being held for ransom. Logan knows that the only way to save the man—and the secrets he holds—is to find him as soon as possible. Sarah is furious when she is strong-armed into joining Logan on his search. And once she takes the perilous assignment, not even Logan's promises that she and Monty will be safe may be enough to protect them. Because a killer is devising a sadistic vengeance . . . and he may soon find use for Sarah.

"My time is near and I want you to have it before I go. There is something I need you to find, something I've lost... " these were the phantom words twelve year old Molly heard shortly after being struck by lightning in the street of River's Bend. The words were spoken in the voice of Ambrosia Hawks, Molly's great-great-grandmother. When she recovered, Molly discovered she and her grandfather were destined for a future located in faraway mountains, at the mysterious Wildewood Estates. Here the balance of good and evil rests on The Book of Redemption, the book they are sworn to protect from the evil Count Armistad at all costs. Has Ambrosia asked too much of her young descendant? Can Molly locate the lost staff and survive the attempts on her life, or will the quest put her and her grandfather in danger of losing their lives, forfeiting the Book to the evil Count Armistad?"

The Legend Springer Science & Business Media
This book is about psychosocial support for communities, individuals, teams and based on my experiences from coordinating mental health activities in Cox ?s Bazar, Bangladesh. It has been my deep joy and honor to work alongside with professionals, volunteers and the beneficiaries and train as well as coordinate it for the camps in Cox ?s Bazar. I realized many years back, that self-care and mental health for the well-being of staff is an important issue. In the context of Bangladesh I was able to combine my professional expertise and my personal interest in serving the beneficiaries as well as the professionals working with them. I am happy to share my findings with you, dear readers.

'You wouldn't take on a cleaner without checking out their references. What possessed you to do it with a husband?' When Mel, an Australian abroad, falls in love with Rufus, the archetypal Englishman, she has no idea what she's letting herself in for. But it is only when their azure Mediterranean courtship is transported to the green fields of England that Melody's doubts set in. For Rufus is heir to the thousand-year-old Bourton Allhallows estate, and Melody is soon painfully aware that, in his family's eyes, an antipodean backpacker is far from the ideal wife. Trapped in a way of life she assumed had long vanished - awash in a stew of formal meals, unhampered snobbery, incomprehensible rules and crumbling masonry - Melody begins to fear for the future of her marriage. And when ancient and not-so-ancient secrets begin to emerge, she faces the disturbing realization that the stakes are far, far higher than she'd imagined ...

Once upon a time, four simple and immensely powerful words. From a really early age, we were exposed to the magic of storytelling. Since human beings first walked the earth, we've been sharing stories, warning each other of mortal danger, teaching right from wrong, inspiring our tribe to action. The latest science tells us that when we hear a story, our bodies produce the hormone oxytocin and we instantly start to form a connection with the person that we are listening to. Stories bind us together and help make sense of our experience. Jamaal Kadeem Cox (1992) He grew up in Harlesden, North West London. His parents divorced when he was still in Primary school. Jamaal and his father stayed close at first, but as his father settled with his new family, their time spent together began to deteriorate. He was an active kid in school; he took part in all the festive plays, after-school sports, drama and choir club. After secondary school, Jamaal attended Harrow Weald College to study I.T software, but due to his older siblings' imprisonment, he dropped out of college to support his mother and his two younger sisters. Jamaal had a best friend who lived on the same road as them since the age of seven years old and who passed away in 2009. Jamaal was left on his own again. Lost with nowhere and no one to turn to, Jamaal fell into a life of crime. In 2011 he was sentenced to two years and two months in HMP. Once he was released, his father took him out of London and soon, feeling lonely again, he succumbs to mental health issues. After hitting rock bottom, Jamaal's father sat him down, and they spoke for days, weeks, months, talking about their past, presence and future. Thanks to the sharing of life stories between father and son, Jamaal set out to start life again and live life on his own terms, accepting life's heartaches as a lesson and appreciating the journey, not focusing on the destination too much. Jamaal realised that his father's story had set him on a path to help and inspire others to reach their goals, no matter what state you are in. Jamaal is here for you now, as Jamaal's father was there for him at his lowest point.

The White Rose Murders Bantam

Japan is a country prepared for earthquakes. Strict guidelines govern new building construction and its citizens are regularly instructed on what to do and how to behave. Nevertheless, nobody was ready for what 2011 had in store for the country. That year, on March the 11th, a powerful earthquake off the north-eastern coast triggered a huge tsunami, resulting in a massive number of casualties and the destruction of a nuclear power plant in Fukushima. In the wake of the frightening event, many foreign residents decided to leave the country, fearing the worst was yet to come. On that day many lives changed forever, including those of friends and book club buddies - Charlotte, Lauren, Fumiko, Katherine and Sinéad. The five friends had planned to meet on the following Wednesday to discuss their book of the month, Middlemarch, but that get-together was not meant to be. They didn't lose their homes or their loved ones in the disaster, but the seismic event shook them to their core. This is the story of the five women and how they each reshaped their lives in the aftermath of this shattering event. Margaret is from the South East of Ireland where she currently lives. She lived in Tokyo for eleven years and was there when Japan was rocked by the 2011 earthquake and tsunami. Her experiences on that day and in the weeks and months that followed formed the inspiration for Three Eleven, her debut novel. She holds an MA in Creative Writing from Bath Spa University and works in education.
